

MUNI
MED

FAKULTNÍ
NEMOCNICE
BRNO

Co-funded by the European Union

Case report

Chirurgická klinika Fakultní nemocnice Brno a Lékařské fakulty Masarykovy Univerzity

- Woman *1954
- OA: hypertension, hyperlipidemia, without any abdominal surgical procedure before
- Positive finding on colonoscopy – tumorous infiltration of cecum histologically v.s. villous adenoma
- Staging CT scans without signs of dissemination

- Hospitalized 22.11.-1.22.
- 23.11. dx. hemicolectomy – stapler resection, sutured stapled lines, hand sewn anastomosis side to side. Perioperatively tendency to hematoma formation. Peroperative ICG negative.
- A few hours after surgery, abdominal pain, higher volume of blood secretion from drain occurred

- In 4.5 hours next revision: venous infarsation of 150 cm of terminal ileum, verified on ICG, resection of terminal ileum anastomosis included. New I-T hand sewn anastomosis side to side
- Intubated, circulatory instability.
Extubation next day, 28.11. moved to standard department
- Control CT scan 29.11. without any complications
- Histology: HG adenoma

Cause?

- An injury during first procedure?
- Anatomical anomaly ?
- Hematological disorder?